

I laughed when my wife Linda suggested flood insurance.
 "Nah, it'll never happen. Why bother?"
 But Linda, who grew up along the Mississippi River and knew the damage that a flood can wreak, kept on. She convinced me that a flood can wreck, kept on. The homeowner's unthinkable happen. Especially River #1 natural disaster doesn't cover flood damage. In all 50 states - in places you'd least expect. Which, in fact, like this. And they occur don't even live near water! And they occur with the loss and damage it wasn't a pleasant experience dealing insurance. Not only would we have to make our original mortgage payments but also repay a loan to get back on our feet. As far as we're concerned, buying National Flood Insurance, let alone as protection against a flood ruining our lives altogether.
